Mr. Machin knows a good Jersey when he sees one. S. A. Grantham, brother-in-law of S. P. Emmons, of this city, carried off the $20 prize at Central College in Fayette for the best essay on Democracy.

KILLED ON THE ALTON.
A Fatal Wreck Near Farber
Early Tuesday Morning.
TWO ENGINES MEET AND DEATH IS THE RESULT.
THE EAST BOUND VESTIBULE TRAIN
COLLIDES WITH A FREIGHT AND SMASHES THINGS UP.
Gus Howard, who lived Ten Miles North of this City, Crushed to Death by the Wrecked Baggage Car—A Number Injured.

At 1:40 o'clock a. m., Tuesday the east bound Alton train for St. Louis pulled out of Mexico with, among the other passengers, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hart, of Kansas City, on board. While the passenger was running at a high speed, it struck the second section of a west bound freight, just two miles east of Farber. The freight engine, Gus Howard, jumped a little too late and the combined baggage and express car crushed him to death. The engines struck with such terrific force as to throw the heads of each southward from the track, where the mangled monsters lay as if embracing each other. The baggage and express car telescoped, the freight's tender passing right into the middle of the car with a flat car loaded with steel rails on top of it. Another flat car, also carrying rails, was smashed up against the pile of wreckage. To the westward of where the engines lay was the first coach, which was torn from the trucks but did not leave the four foot embankment. The two other coaches kept the track. When the baggage car telescoped and turned over, the express messenger was thrown through the side of the car upward, breaking both lower limbs. The baggage man, John X. Moore, formerly of Mexico, stated to a LEDGER representative who was on the scene shortly after the disaster, that he was sitting on a trunk when he heard the engine put on the air brakes, but hadn't time to move before there was a crash and he was in close connection with a pile of trunks. He complains of a stiffness in his back, but is not seriously hurt. This is his seventh wreck in twenty-four years that he has run on the Alton.

THE CAUSE.
Lane, the freight engineer, received orders which he evidently misunderstood. He remained on the side-track at Farber until two trains had passed, and thinking this was all, pulled out on the main track for Laddonia. Stephens, the other engineer, seeing the headlight in front, thought it was on the sidetrack until it was too late to avert the danger. Why it was that Lane didn't see the passenger's light is hard to understand. If he had seen it there could have been no mistake as to its being on the main track, as there was no side-track within several miles ahead. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hart, of Kansas City, were on the train, bound for Chicago, via St. Louis, but were in the rear coaches and were uninjured. The body of fireman Howard was brought to Mexico, as his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Howard, live 14 miles north of town.

At 12:30 o'clock the track had been diverted of all the wreckage and trains began to move. Among the express were six crates of fat hens, about half of which were killed, but the remainder completely perched themselves under the wrecked car until it was moved, when they joined the fowls of a neighboring barn yard. The funeral of the dead fireman took place at Godfrey, Ill., Wednesday, that being his old home. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen will conduct the funeral.

It has just leaked out that Wood Matthews and his brother, Pete, had a desperate encounter last Friday night at their home a few miles west of town. It seems that Wood, the larger of the two, wanted possession of a certain horse and was leading it away. There were hot words over it and in the fight which followed Wood was struck in the breast with a pitchfork, while Pete had one eyelid entirely split into and the cheek fearfully lacerated, probably with a stone. Neither was dangerously hurt. No arrests were made.

Look Out.
I warn all persons not to trade for, or buy a certain note executed by me for $600 about March 8, 1890, due seven months after date, and payable to some one connected with what is said to be the Kansas City Medical and Surgical Sanitarium. One Prof. Jno. L. Foster secured said note through misrepresentation and I will not pay it. G. W. ELLISON.
What news as a voluptuous maiden of the world has opened; the rights of time or be forced to purchase, at heavy expense, what has been lost through neglect of those interested with guarding the public interests.

HARDIN PARK.
Through the public spirit of a most generous benefactor—not a citizen of the city although one of its heaviest tax payers—Mexico has what may be made a beautiful park. Heretofore the city has been extremely parsimonious in caring for this popular resort, and I recommend that a sum sufficient to far improve the grounds and furnish walks and to supply needed trees and shrubs be appropriated.

THE NEW COUNCIL.
Mayor Ferris Delivers a Rousing Inaugural—The New Appointments Most Acceptable.
The new City Council, consisting of Mayor G. L. Ferris, R. M. White, Councilman First Ward, R. M. Allison, Councilman Second Ward, B. N. Armstrong, Councilman Third Ward, T. F. Roden, Councilman Fourth Ward, A. F. Reid, Councilman Fifth Ward, and C. R. Lupton, Councilman Sixth Ward, met for the first time last night. Recorder Riley swore in Mayor Ferris and Mayor Ferris then swore in Recorder Riley, after which Recorder Riley swore in the Councilmen and the City Marshal. Mayor G. Leslie Ferris then delivered the following inaugural address, which was well received by the Councilmen and the lobby, which was filled with prominent taxpayers, interested in the city's welfare:

GENTLEMEN OF THE COUNCIL:
The management of the public affairs of the city for the next twelve months rests with this body, and I desire, at the threshold of our administration, to briefly and plainly present to you some of the more important matters which it will be our duty to consider. The obligation which we enter upon to-night claims our earnest and unselfish consideration. Our public duty should have all of the care and all the diligence of the most conscientious of the zeal that we bestow upon our own private affairs. We are entrusted with the financial management of the city—the agents, as it were, of her property, whose failure would be to the detriment of the city and to the ruin of the people. The prosperity of the city and the contentment of our people depends, to a large degree, upon the prudent, energy and wisdom with which we perform the trust committed to our keeping. It is imperative, therefore, that while we should be active in our efforts to advance the city in every way possible, we should maintain a vigilant watch over the treasury and that not a dollar is expended that is not authorized by our charter and demanded by the public interests. To this end let all improvements that we may be able to make during the year be substantial rather than extensive.

STREET IMPROVEMENTS.
The work of macadamizing our streets, so auspiciously carried on last year, should be continued this year, and those localities which have received scant consideration heretofore should have our earliest attention. It will not be possible to expend for macadam this year as much as was appropriated last year, for the reason that in the year just closed the new work claimed so much attention that the street crossings and the old macadam were necessarily neglected, and will require extra attention this year; the crossings especially should be improved—made wider and more substantial. I call the attention of the Council to the fact that the ordinances require all of the macadamizing to be let by contract; this ordinance has virtually been a dead letter for some years. I think it would prove much more satisfactory to the people and secure much better results if more improvements for the amount of money expended to comply strictly with the ordinances in this as in other particulars. The alleys adjacent to the Public Square are demeriting attention. This is demanded alike by the business interests and sanitary considerations. These alleys should be rock-paved so that they may be used for the purpose for which they were intended and kept free from the filth and garbage which make them a source of great annoyance.

CLOSED STREETS AND ALLEYS.
While on the subject of streets and alleys I will call your attention to the fact that quite a number of these thoroughfares are enclosed by adjacent property owners. The most of these enclosures are of little value and are a source of annoyance to the city just now, but the city has a right to demand that these be opened; the rights of time or be forced to purchase, at heavy expense, what has been lost through neglect of those interested with guarding the public interests.

HARDIN PARK.
Through the public spirit of a most generous benefactor—not a citizen of the city although one of its heaviest tax payers—Mexico has what may be made a beautiful park. Heretofore the city has been extremely parsimonious in caring for this popular resort, and I recommend that a sum sufficient to far improve the grounds and furnish walks and to supply needed trees and shrubs be appropriated.

A MURDERER.
MANSFIELD KING A MOST DESPERATE CHARACTER.
Mysterious Facts Familiar to the Readers of the Ledger Explained.
Mansfield King, formerly of the northeastern part of this county, who has relatives in Mexico now, must be a very bad man according to his own story. He was arrested in St. Louis on Saturday for horse stealing and tells the following remarkable story:

"I am glad they have got me now," he said with a weary sigh. "I have thought lots of times I would give myself up, but I never did so. I am a murderer, a robber and a thief."

"Seven years ago I was a young farmer living near Perry, Ralls County, Mo. I had to work hard for my living and thought I could make money in an easier way. One night I had hidden on horse-back into Perry and there I saw a man named Carter, who lived about two miles from the town. I asked him what time he was going home and he said in about an hour. Then I rode on my horse down the road over which he would pass and waited for him. He came walking along and I got up and walked along beside him, leading my horse. There is a little creek called Lick Creek, along which we were walking, and when we got up real close to it, within about ten feet, I put my revolver up by the side of his head, right here," he said, pointing to his right temple just behind the eye, "I shot him right there and he fell without a groan. Then I went through his pockets and took his money. He had $100 in greenbacks and $7.50 in silver. Then I pulled his body over to the creek and threw it in. I then mounted my horse and rode home."

"Every night since then I have seen his white face, the blood trickling down the side of the head just as it looked as his body splashed into the water. I see it every day, every hour. Oh, you don't know anything about such a feeling," he continued as he buried his face in his hands as though to shut out some horrible sight. "You never had such a feeling, did you? If you ever have, you must not blame me for wanting to tell some one about it."

"I was living alone in a cabin on my farm, and every night I used to see that man's face looking at me through the window, through the door, everywhere. I wanted to die or get rid of that feeling some way. I have got an uncle, named J. W. Scobee, who lived about a mile from where I did. I took a piece of old coat lining and made a black mask out of it and then after putting it on my face went over to his house. I knocked on the door and he told me to come in. I had a revolver, but I didn't have it pointed at him. I wanted him to shoot me right there. He saw my neck and couldn't tell who I was. 'What do you want?' he said. 'I want your money,' said I. 'I haven't any,' he said, but didn't make any move to do anything to me. Then I went home and went to bed."

"There was a man named James A. Coil, who lived a little ways from where I did. One night he went over to a neighbor's house and I saw him go. When he came home he had to pass through a piece of timber and I waited for him. When he came by I just stepped up to him and put my hands in his pockets and took his money. I thought he would try to shoot me or something but he didn't. I got $350 from him."

"I was working hard on my farm and no one appeared to think I was no honest. Last July, on the 7th, I got married to a real nice girl. My wife kept saying that there was something wrong with me because she said I used to talk in my sleep and cry out at night. Finally my uncle suspected another man, a good, honest man with a family, of having tried to rob him. One day about six months ago I went to my uncle's house and took a dose of laudanum. When I told my uncle about how I had tried to rob him and was going to tell him about the murder when my wife's brother came home with the doctor. He pumped the poison out of me and then I didn't tell him about the murder because I got well. The story of my trying to rob my uncle got out and I was arrested. My wife's brother went on my mind and I was let out of jail. Then they persuaded me to skip out, my uncle and all of them. They are nearly all my kin folks and they wanted me to get away. I finally did. I sold out everything I had and then I skipped. Before I had taken the poison I had burned up every bit of the money which I had stolen and I only had about $75 when I left home."

"About three weeks ago I tried to kill myself in Chicago. I went to the Eagle Hotel which is near the Union Depot, and I didn't eat any supper or breakfast, because I was going to take morphine and kill myself; and I thought that it would set better on an empty stomach. I went to my room and took the poison, but the man that runs the hotel came in my room and, seeing me on the bed, called the police. They pumped the poison out of me, and I was in the hospital four weeks. Then I went from Chicago to Monroe City, about fifteen miles from where I lived, and last Saturday early in the morning I started to come to St. Louis. I stopped and stole the horse on the way here and then rode into town on a wagon with another man. I had a good mind to rob him, but he didn't have anything but his clothes worth taking, so I let him alone.

"My lawyer wanted me to stand trial, but you bet I am going to plead guilty to everything they bring up against me. I want them to do something to me, so that I will be punished for what I have done. I can't stand this any longer and I shan't try to. I hope they will send me to jail and then perhaps they will keep that white face and those staring eyes out of my sight."

The officers from Sappington county took the prisoner away from the Four Courts in St. Louis yesterday.

Other people save money by buying of La Crosse Lumber Co., besides getting better grades. Why should you not do the same? Renie-Simmons.
Married, at the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. W. H. Post, in Kansas City, on April 9th, by Rev. Bishop, Miss Annie Simmons, of Macon, Ill., to Mr. Albert Renie, formerly of Prairie View, but now a leading groceryman of Kansas City. Mr. and Mrs. Renie were tendered a reception at the parents' residence in this county on the 10th. A sumptuous repast was served at 1 o'clock p. m. At a late hour the guests left wishing Mr. and Mrs. Renie a prosperous and happy life. On the same evening a dancing party was given by the bride and groom by Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hitt. Following is a list of presents:

Pair silver napkin rings, Mr. and Mrs. William Barth, London, England. Among the presents was an old rusty, lucky horse shoe, remembered by Wm. Barth.

LADDONIA LACONICS.
Correspondence of the Ledger.
LADDONIA, Mo., April 15.—The rumored that the wedding put off, on account of groom not coming on day appointed, will yet be consummated. "All is well that ends well."

The Champion Trotting Stallion of Missouri,
Robert Rysdyk,
6060, Record 2:24 1-4.
Sired by William Rysdyk 627, by Hambletonian 10, 1st dam Queen Bee by Keenage; 2d dam by Duvall's Mambrino by Mambrino Chief.
Robert Rysdyk is a beautiful brown 16 hands high, of fine form and finish and has proven himself an extra breeder. To take into consideration his beauty, style, form, size, breeding, disposition and speed, he has no superior in the land.

CLIPPER. (Standard.)
Sired by Robert Rysdyk. 1st dam Olivett by Onward sire of 27 in the 30 list, 2d dam Santa Clara by Magic by American Clay.
CLIPPER is a beautiful bay, 5 years old, 15-1-2 hands high, and is a very promising colt and as well bred as any in the state; his second, third, and fourth dams have all produced 3:00 speed, and it is reasonable to expect his dam to put a colt in the list this year which will give him an unbroken chain of producing dams for four generations—an inheritance that few horses, if any, are accredited with.

WILSON.
Sired by Sherman's Wilkes by George Wilkes. 1st dam by Arcadia by Hambletonian 10. 2d dam Narcissa by Imp. Trustee.
WILSON is a nice strong colt, 5 years old this spring, 15-1-2 hands high, a roanish bay in color. He is a perfect Wilkes in conformation and promise to be fast.

WARFELLOW. (Thoroughbred.)
Sired by Longfellow. 1st dam War Over by War Dance, by Lexington. 2d dam Crescent by Imp. Australian.
WARFELLOW is a dark bay, 16-1-4 hands high, of good bone and substance and promises to be one of the best sons of his immortal sire that stands the present season for $500, without any return privilege; book now full.

Narragansett. (Thoroughbred.)
Sired by Imp. Eclipse. 1st dam Jessie Dixon by Arlington. 2d dam Puss by John Blount.
NARRAGANSETT is now quite old and not fit for hard service, but he still shows his breeding and vim in such an impressive manner that he is sure to attract attention from the lovers of the thoroughbred.

Duke of Hayton, 251.
Sired by Lord John. 1st dam by Young Randolph. 2d dam by Inkerman.
THE DUKE OF HAYTON is an imported Cleveland Bay, 16-1-2 hands high, and is a perfect Hayton in conformation and promise to be a sure and an extra breeder, and his colts are ready sale at any age and command good prices.

MOSS ROSE.
Sired by Montrose. Dam by Versallier grand by Vandal. This horse is too well known to need any description here given, but will say this much, that the last year he was in Kentucky he was taken to all the large shows and never failed to receive first honors. He has also taken the two last exhibits he ever made in the show ring. Moss Rose is making a reputation in the stud race to his show record. His offerings have proven so valuable we have put him on the farm and raising stock for our own use. Moss Rose is owned by CLARK & SUREB, and will make the present season at the Sims farm, 6 miles northwest of Mexico. The above named horses, with the exception of Moss Rose, will make the present season on the

Fair Grounds at Mexico, Missouri, upon the following terms:
Robert Rysdyk at $50 the season, payable July 1st, or I will take a good note for $100, payable when he makes a record of 2:30 or better.
Clipper at $25 the season, payable July 1st, or I will take a good note for $50, payable when he makes a record of 2:30 or better.
Wilson at $10 the season, payable July 1st, or $15 to insure in foal, or I will take a good note for $25, payable when he can trot in 2:35 or better.
Warfellow at $15 the season or $25 to insure.
Narragansett at $30 the season, payable July 1st.
Duke of Hayton at $30 the season, payable July 1st.
When horses are bred by season and do not prove to be in foal they can be returned next season free, if the horse is alive in my or our possession. If bred by insurance the money is due as soon as the fact is ascertained, mare returned from neighborhood or parted with. I will use care to prevent accident, but will not be responsible should any occur. I am situated to grain or can furnish good pasture for mares from a distance at fifty cents per week on grass or $1 when fed grain. I will receive and deliver at the depot free of charge. I have been several years collecting this stock, keeping constantly before my mind that the best is always the cheapest. After thanking my friends for past patronage, I will say that the gates are always open and we will take pleasure in exhibiting this stock to any one who has interest enough to come and look, excepting Sundays. All mares from a distance sent to Moss Rose will either be received at the farm or at Mexico and delivered and returned free of charge.
For extended pedigree of stock or other information, apply to

MARTINSBURG MATTERS.
Correspondence of the Ledger.
MARTINSBURG, Mo., April 16.—Hon. Champ Clark addressed the ladies and gentlemen of this place Saturday night in memory and celebration of Thomas Jefferson, the father of the Democratic party. It was a grand subject, handled by an able man and handled effectively too. Pike county should be proud of such men as Mr. Clark. The Martinsburg creamery is complete and ready for business. Let every farmer hearken thereto. Mr. Tom Johnson, one of our new enterprising merchants, will move his family from Montgomery City here this week. Mr. Chris Nohrenberg has been quite sick for two weeks with pneumonia. Billie Peery is feeding 64 head of cattle on Dr. Taylor's pasture. Woodson Bros. are feeding over 100 head of cattle on J. W. Crigger's pasture. Mrs. T. B. Duncan and little daughter are spending a few days with her parents. Deacon Martin will move into his brick residence on Walnut street this week. Excitement waxed high over the Building & Loan Association and a great many of our prominent citizens have taken part, expecting to build right away. True & Pollard bought lots 7, 8 and 9, block 1, Crigger's addition. S. V. Overbight bought lot 1, block 8, Crigger's addition. Miss Nimmie Jones is visiting in Mexico this week. Everybody is trimming trees, laying sidewalks, selling harness, making gardens and tending chickens. John Gay and wife, of Benton City, visited in the Burg Sunday and Monday. Rev. Father Haar and Mr. Steve Berth attended the G. A. R. Encampment at Jefferson City last week.

MAPLE GROVE ITEMS.
Dispersal of the estate of the late Mrs. Fox did not purchase near Vandalia, but bought a house in North Mexico and moved Monday. Mrs. N. F. Kilgore, Mrs. Geo. Whaley and Mrs. W. H. Turner, of Mexico, visited C. T. Black's family Tuesday. Wm. Kombrink is building a fine barn, 34x40. Wm. Kombrink took some fat hogs to town Monday and sold at $3.80 per hundred. Several parties from this vicinity attended the marriage of Miss Ellen Brown and Mr. Wm. Fugus, which took place last Thursday at the residence of Thos. Scott, near Thompson. L. S. Hopkins returned Monday from the G. A. R. State encampment at Jefferson City. He reports a grand meeting and compliments Gov. Francis very highly for his efforts in helping to make the meeting a success. On his way home, Mr. Hopkins spent two nights at Fulton with his friends, W. C. Barnes and J. P. Gass. Prof. Gass' many friends in this county will be glad to hear that he was unanimously endorsed by the School Board Saturday night for another term as president of the Fulton schools. Get your plow shoes of the Boston Shoe Store. W. S. Hathaway has just received a car load of harvesting machinery. The largest line of plow shoes can be seen at the Boston Shoe Store. Miss Ida Spencer, of Laddonia, invites you to see her new stock of millinery, gloves, corsets, hose, etc., which she sells as low as the lowest. Dressmaking a specialty. W. S. Hathaway has a full line of plows, harrows, planters, cultivators, etc.
